

Anthony Iannucci
Toronto Transit Commission

BIOGRAPHY:

Anthony Iannucci has spent over 30 years with the Toronto Transit Commission. After 11 years in the Transit Operation, Anthony moved to the Information Technology Services department focusing on serving a larger user community in the TTC progressing through the organization in various technical areas and increasing responsibilities.

Since 2009 Anthony has held the role of Chief Information Officer for the Toronto Transit Commission. During his tenure Anthony has applied his broad knowledge and experience in leading complex technology operations and project initiatives across TTC large-scale organization, to offer and maintain a reliable service to the TTC's external and internal user community.

The recent primary focus has been a transformation of the TTC's Information Technology Services department towards greater business alignment and increasing the value of decision making information management for the TTC's modernization efforts and the improvement of the TTC Customer Experience.