How can we use technology to make society better for all?

This year, technology thought leaders from over 15 countries will come to Ottawa to answer one simple question: How can we use technology to make society better for all?

ITAC is pleased to again support FWD50, a global conference on Digital Government.

This year's Conference will take place November 7-9, 2018 in Ottawa. FWD50 is the biggest gathering of public and private sector digital government experts in Canada, and we encourage members to get involved and support it if they can.

The Conference includes a wide range of workshops, keynotes, unconferences and breakouts on every facet of digital innovation. This year's event includes a deep focus on Artificial Intelligence (AI) and data science, digital identity, Blockchain, and digital governance.

ITAC was a founding partner of the conference in 2017, and we're thrilled to be supporting the event once again.

Here are some ways you can get involved:

- Sponsorship: Some ITAC members are already sponsoring the Conference. There are a handful of opportunities left. If you want to help make the event happen, contact the organizers here.
- Attend in person at a discount: Be a part of the conversation. ITAC members will receive a 15 per cent discount on conference passes. To receive this discount, please use this link.
- Enter a proposal: Got a talk to give (that isn't a product pitch)? The Call for Proposals is open until September 10.
